PRICE THREE CENTS

OHIO CAMPAIGN COMES TO

Despite Extremely Large List of Candidates Interest Lags.

WINNERS IN DOUBT

Count Expected to Be Slow As Immense Number In the Field.

Cleveland, August 8 .- As Ohio voters owning allegiance to the Republican and Democratic parties go to the polls today in the state-wide primary election to select candidates for UUnited States senator, governor and other state offices as well as complete district and county tickets, a campaign without a precedent in many respects in this state is brought to an end.

Despite the extremely large list of candidates—there are nine Republicans seeking the nomination for governor and almost as large fields for some of the minor positions-the interest of the voters apparently has never risen to fever heat, and only the progress of the voting throughout the state today will show whether or not the issues discussed and the personalities involved will bring out a heavy vote at the primaries.

Leaders of organized labor have taken no open part in the gubernatorial fight, but are engaged in an Congressman Simeon D. Fess, who aspires to succeed him. So far as they can influence the result, votes will be cast for John J. Lentz as against Pomerene and for former Senator Charles Dick as against Fess Pomerene also faces the opposition of the anti-saloon league, but the consensus in all circles, even include.

No less confident appeared Harvey H. Day, only veteran of the world war to seek the governorship; Rupert F. Beetham, speaker of the house; C. Homer Durand, the "wet" candidate and Daniel Webster Williams, like Knight, a former progressive.

On the Democratic side, most observers predicted that A. V. Donahey of New Philadelphia, would lead his rivals, Judge James G. Johnson, of Springfield and Thomas J. Berlin, August 8 .- A supreme effort will be made here tomorrow to settle the Bavarian secession problem Count Van Preger told President Ebert that Premier Lerchenfeldt, of Bavaria, Minister of Interior Schwey. er, and Minister of Justice Guertner would arrive from Munich tomorrow to consult with officials of the Berlin government. It is believed that an amicable agreement will be reached by which Bavaria will remain in the confederation of German states. The chief cause of discussion was the defense of the republic act, which was palpably aimed at Bavarian royalty.

Democracy of Style

A man can step out of one of our stores as correctly and smartly dressed as anyone he will meet in the most exclusive places.

And it won't have strained his income. It is literally true that a man's wealth is no longer indicated by his dress.

An employee can, and often does, wear better looking clothes than his boss.

The struggling salesman, in appearance, can be on exactly the same level as the man he is trying to

When it comes to style in clothes, hats and haberdashery, people are born free and equal.

Our two stores are operated primarily to serve men of average incomes, but, as a matter of fact, we count among our customers a great many men of wealth.

Simply because their common sense shows them the foolishness of paying enormous prices for the style, wear and satisfaction they get from us at reasonable prices.

We stand for the democracy of style because we make it possible for very man to enjoy the satisfaction of being well dressed.

Be sure and see this week Golf-Tennis Window. Many suggestions for outdoor men.

Jamestown,

Berlin, August 8 .- A supreme effort will be made here tomorrow to settle the Bavarian secession problem Count Van Preger told President Ebert that Premier Lerchenfeldt, of Bavaria, Minister of Interior Schwey. Several from this vicinity attended er, and Minister of Justice Guertner would arrive from Munich tomorrow to consult with officials of the Berlin government. It is believed that an amicable agreement will be reached by which Bavaria will remain in the confederation of German states. The chief cause of discussion was the defense of the republic act, which was palpably aimed at Bavarian royalty.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all those who were so kind and helpful during our recent bereavement in the loss of our Mother, Ruth St. John Hathaway. Most especially we wish to thank Rev. Busler for his consoling words. Mr. R. M. Neeld for the efficient and kindly way he performed his duties, the men who sang and all who sent such lovely flowers and who gave of their love and their sympathy, so generously.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Johnson.

Democracy of Style

A man can step out of one of our stores as correctly and smartly dressed as anyone he will meet in the most exclusive places.

And it won't have strained his income. It is literally true that a man's wealth is no longer indicated by his dress.

An employee can, and often does, wear better looking clothes than his boss.

The struggling salesman, in appearance, can be on exactly the same level as the man he is trying to

When it comes to style in clothes, hats and haberdashery, people are born free and equal.

Our two stores are operated primarily to serve men of average incomes, but, as a matter of fact, we count among our customers a great many men of wealth.

Simply because their common sense shows them the foolishness of paying enormous prices for the style, wear and satisfaction they get from us at reasonable prices.

We stand for the democracy of style because we make it possible for very man to enjoy the satisfaction of being well dressed.

Be sure and see this week Golf-Tennis Window. Many suggestions for outdoor men.

Now on display in our windows-"Beau Brummell" the newest thing in neckwear.

BY GIRL'S SCREAMS

Cincinnati, August 8.-Miss Eva Sibilla, 18, of Seattle, Wash., fought with an intruder early this morning at the home of her half brother, John Vigna, after a man gained entrance to her room and pressed a knife against her throat. In the course of, the struggle the girl was cut on the hand by her assailant's weapon but the man broke away and escaped when Vigna was aroused by Miss Sibilla's screams and came in with a revolver. Police believe attack was the intruder's motive as careful preparations were made for escape and nothing was stolen from the house.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S FUTURE HOPE FOR THE U. S.

It will take some time to build up passenger and cargo trade in American ships. It takes time to get any new business established, to secure good will, to make a reputation. To establish American lines for New York to European ports from New York to Rio and Buenos Aires, from San Francisco to the Far East, will cost some mney. But it should not be expensive. We have the ships and we have the men to run the ships. There are no better sailors on the sea. If we are just sensible business men we will win. A merchant marine means a transit service for all American industry, agricultural as well as manufacturing, which consults American needs. It means that the world's markets will be made as readily accessible to the American exporter as they have always been to the English. It means that the United States will have always in training a naval reserve as a complement to its regular naval establishment. It means in case of war, with the demands upon the ships of other nations in their own naval service, that we shall have our ships in commission, that we shall not be suddenly cut off from the world's trade.

WITH THIS VIEW YOU CAN HARDLY CALL THEM "HEATHEN CHINESE."

The political revolution in China is inconsiderable in comparison with the mental revolution that has come about within 25 years. The news from Peking that Secretary Denby, of the Navy department, narrowly escaped death in the fall of an airplane near the Great Wall indicates the extent to which China has changed. For two or three years airplanes have been making regular trips from the capital to the Great Wall for the accommodation of tourists. Thirty years ago there was strong hostility even to railroads. The Chinese were afraid that the repose of the dead would be disturbed by the noise of the trains. But sentiment toward the railroads changed rapidly and now the Chinese are building them as fast as they can get the capital.

SOUTH AMERICAN FAITH IN THE UNITED STATES RENEWED.

The Washington conference was a direct result of the foreign policy of the United States as enunciated and put into practice by the present administration. The influences exerted by the United States in that conference for peaceful settlement of international differences not only brought success to that conference but promoted the cause of international peace by inspiring other nations to settle their differences around the council table rather than on the field of battle.

The lest example of this is the successful enclusion of an arbitration conference between Chile and Peru, held in the United States. This conference, held in response to suggestions of our government, was for the purpose of settling differences of long standing between these nations. The situation had become so critical that war was imminent.

The magnificant example of our government in connection with the Washington conference mved the South American republics to accept our offices as mediator and to hold their deliberations.

OBERVATION AND EXPERIENCE front ranks do all travel who are to accept our offices as mediator and to hold their deliberations. And from this experience we get ing and repair, and as much more has been provided for work that will run into next year and perhaps the one after. Considered in comparison with 1914, it indicates a 150 per cent increase -but the increase in American highway traffic in the past eight years is more than 450 per cent.

The fact is that, despite tax burdens that grow steadily more troublesome, we seem unable to increase our facilities for motor and horse drawn vehicle traffic more than one-third as zapidly as the traffic grows. It offers a problem which no political subdivision can ignore, but which few have as yet been able even to pretend to solve.

There's always some far famed explorer preparing for an arctic trip, where climate is a ring-tailed roarer, and forty kinds of blizzards zip. Oh, dauntless are these men who leave us, and I applaud them as they go, although I have conviction grievous that all they'll ever find is snow. I hand a wreath to every hero who hooks his dachshunds to a sled and travels to the land of zero, to make a map in green and red. I think of tired explorers reeling exhausted, on their icy way, and I can't help the foolish feeling that they'd do better baling hay. The north is full of frozen corses which serve no purpose good or wise, while hay will feed our helpful horses, and stuff the tick on which man lies. I think if scientists impassioned would leave the wild wastes unexplored, and haul elm wood, in stove lengths fashioned, they'd do more for their bed and board. We need strong men to harvest squashes, and it is sad to see them go to where an ice cold ocean washes a coastline heaped with useless snow. We need good men to fix our lizzies, for which we'd pay a seemly price; and yet the daft explorer busies himself with dreams of endless ice.

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

Indomitable urant

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

Gates of Boston, Mass., general secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society, will give his second message to the conference Monday evening. Mr. Gates delighted his audience Monday evening, with an address on the "Responsible ty of the Church for its Young People" He holds the Church responsible: first, for winning the young record to Christ second the young people to Christ, second, for teaching the young people what, as Christians, they should know, third, for thraining young people for living, and for service, and fourth, for employing young people in the work for which they are fitted and called.

Dr. A. W. Jamison, of this city, who is prominently connected with the conference, issues the following appeal to the young people of the city in training their attention to Mr. Gates addresses.

"One if the greatest Christian Endeavorers in the world is in the city to see you. Epworth League and Christian Union workers are asked to marshal their forces, and take advantage of the best of any state or national convention which has been brought to Xenia by the Bible Conference. Mr. Gates was well received Monday night, when he talked to your fathers and mothers, and Tuesday night he wants to talk to you. Be their at seven o'clock.

Following his message at eight eight o'clock, Dr. J. S. McGaw of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, will deliver a lecture on "Loyalty to Law."

Notice to the Public

During the last six years we have been buying milk and cream from hundreds of up-to-date Greene County dairy farms. We have paid close to two million dollars to farmers around Xenia. Many times we have been urged by Xenia citizens, particuarly doctors and professional people, to sell bottled milk, to the retail trade.

We have purchased the dairy business of Mr. E. V. Barnes, who desires to retire, and are placing on the market our

Pasteurized

"Goodness, How You'll Like It!"

Recently we announced that we were PASTEURIZING for the Barnes Dairy, Ringer and Son Dairy and the Producers Milk Co. This was a temporary arrangement to help them meet the requirements of the Xenia City Health Department. These concerns now have secured equipment and are using their own methods. Only the patrons of Barnes' Dairy are receiving milk pasteurized in our plant. If you would prefer our product phone your order to Bell 39, Home 311.

Notice to the Public

During the last six years we have been buying milk and cream from hundreds of up-to-date Greene County dairy farms. We have paid close to two million dollars to farmers around Xenia. Many times we have been urged by Xenia citizens, particuarly doctors and professional people, to sell bottled . milk, to the retail trade.

We have purchased the dairy business of Mr. E. V. Barnes, who desires to retire, and are placing on the market our

FESS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY ON EVE

Dr. S. D. Fess, of Yellow Springs Republican candidate for the senator. nomination, expressed confidence that he would win in addressing an air meeting at the National open air meeting at the Monday Military Home, Dayton, Monday

Dr. Fess closed his campaign with the address, which made 134 he has delivered since he opened his primary campaign in Dayton, June 20. "I have conducted a whole-hearted, oldfashioned campaign," said Dr. Fess. "I have formed no alliance with any of the other candidates because they are all personal friends of mine, and I value their friendship too highly to risk the loss of it.

"I have conducted a strenous campaign, but it was not merely because I thought I needed to win the nomination I have felt all along that I will be nominated and have already laid plans for my campaign for the general election in November."

In his address at the Home, Dr. Fess assured his hearers that the only platform upon which he would enter the senate is one that will preserve the Union and perpetuate the American republic. "America will not overlook the duty of those who gave in times of great crisis," he declared. "It is for you, the voters to send men to your legislative bodies who will do the things which they have promised. It is not the promises you want but the recognition of those promises and their fulfillment," he continued.

This is one of the most sacred spots of the United States. This home is the living memorial to those men who gave their all, who gave the greater part of their all, that this the American Republic, should exist. The United States has passed through seven great wars, it was not the numbers that counted, but the spile is a soun spoon with the silver knife, their sharp at Harveysburg nine one small silver knife, their sharp and occasionally making a note on her slip of paper. Dr. Fess was introduced by Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Dayton. Following Fess' address, Clarence Brinkle, vice president of the Veterans' Republican Club introduced a number of Montgomery County Re. publicans who are candidates for county offices. Dr. Fess also made a number of informal addresses Monday in Dayton, besides his talk at the

I can at "You can trust an Irishman, can't ready see myself longing for-oh, lotse so that it will reach your hostess on you, Nellie, and-what shall we do she, Dugan "Nellie flashed her of things! A big reading lamp with a rose colored shade, a bookcase, muslin curtains, and oh, a lot of other things

"And I can see myself eating a square meal. Every time I looked at that stove I tasted things we would cook on it." Nellie returned. "You can have your book case, as soon as we the monogram or initials showing, and with a dinner roll or a square of bread between the folds. To the left bread between the folds. To the left parts of apples pared and cut in if he isn't."

Well, I only hope Dugan is marthing off with you in his anger he respected you for reputs have any chairs to sit on so we won't awhile for rose colored shades and muslin curtains.

"Run out and mail this, Nellie dear, I'm too tired to move," Cora gave her the letter she had written, and two cents to buy a stamp at the drug store Nellie added ten cents more for a special delivery.

"I know the Corners!" she muttered as she dropped the letter in the box. "They'll get this to Mrs. Baker double quick so they can know what's in it
